THE ORGANIZATION

Girl Scouts of Southern Nevada is the preeminent organization serving the interests of girls in the region, seeking to bring out the greatness in every girl, empowering her to pursue her dreams, and make the world a better place. The Council has current membership of 4,450 girls, more than 1,560 valued adult volunteers, and a staff of 32 full and part-time employees. It has an annual operating budget of $4.1 million. Headquartered in Las Vegas, the Council operates a number of additional properties which include Camp Foxtail, a day-use site in the Calico Basin desert recreation area, and two Scout houses in Boulder City and Henderson. All Girl Scout programs and activities – from camping to computing, arts to engineering, service projects to field trips – are designed to challenge and prepare girls for a future of leadership and achievement.

The Council is justifiably proud of its STEAM Program - introducing Girl Scouts of every age to science, technology, engineering, arts and math to help them see how they can actually improve the world – whether they're discovering how a car's engine runs, learning to manage finances, or caring for animals. To encourage girls to explore different aspects of STEAM every year, the Council has developed a unique, "fun with purpose" K-12 curriculum to inspire girls to embrace and celebrate scientific discovery in their lives.
