Report COVID-19 positive test results to Girl Scouts of Southern Nevada. I understand Girl Scout members are not required to participate in any activity. It is the sole discretion of each individual family and their comfort level with the planned activity. If my Girl Scout will participate in person, we will follow the guidance listed above to the best of our ability.

The Coronavirus disease of 2019 (COVID-19) is thought to spread mainly from person to person, mainly through respiratory droplets produced when an infected person coughs, sneezes, or talks. These droplets can land in the mouths or noses of people who are nearby or possibly be inhaled into the lungs. Spread is more likely when people are in close contact with one another (within about 6 feet). Because it is a new virus, scientists are learning more each day. Although most people who have COVID-19 have mild symptoms, COVID-19 can also cause severe illness and even death. Some groups, including older adults and people who have certain underlying medical conditions, are at increased risk of severe illness. As with any social activity, participation in Girl Scouts could present the risk of your Girl Scout contracting COVID-19. While the Girl Scouts of Southern Nevada takes every safety and preventative precaution recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention ("CDC") as well as State and local authorities, Girl Scouts of Southern Nevada can in no way represent, warrant or guarantee that COVID-19 infection will not occur through participation in troop or council programs.
